

Prenups: do they work and do you need one?

12 DECEMBER 2017

CATEGORY:

VIDEO

Ahead of a marriage, it is important to think about your longer term needs, particularly if you have inheritance or other assets to consider.

Of course, prenups can be difficult to talk about, but many people now regard them as a sensible arrangement providing security in the future should the worst happen. Our short video sets out the background and what you might need to consider if you are thinking about a prenup,

Our golden rule? Don't leave it too late, have the conversation as early as possible, seek advice and ensure the prenup agreement is done and dusted well ahead of your wedding.

Do also take a look at our prenup page for useful guidance and some pointers for talking about a prenup with your partner here.

Authors

Suzanne Todd

PARTNER | LONDON

Divorce and family

 +44 20 7597 6164

 suzanne.todd@withersworldwide.com

Vanessa Mitchell

REGISTERED FOREIGN LAWYER | HONG KONG

Divorce and family

 +44 20 7597 6603

 vanessa.mitchell@withersworldwide.com