The most significant US tax reform in over 30 years was signed into law on 22 December. Most of the provisions took immediate effect on the 1 January, leaving little time for the market and advisors to digest these reforms and the implications to those affected. The impacts are far reaching for everyone that has ties with the US economy, including Asia-based corporates, funds, high net worth individuals and financial institutions.

How will this all play out, and what do you need to know in order to benefit or reduce the undesirable impacts of the US tax reform?

Withers invites you to a seminar where our US corporate tax and private client teams will discuss the investment planning opportunities, impact and considerations on foreign investment, real estate and tax for clients and advisors.

The seminar will be hosted in our Singapore office on Thursday 25 January from 4.00pm until 5.00pm with a 3.45pm registration.
