Individuals in the UK currently face a challenge in planning for the future, with the uncertainties that arise from Brexit and also from a possible change in government as the country potentially faces a more radical shift in the political consensus than it has seen for decades.

Our panel discussion on 21 March, will look at some of the possible impacts to individuals and what practical steps people may want to be taking now to provide stability for the future. This will include topics on:

- Personal and corporate taxation, including non-doms
- Real estate issues, including development and expropriation
- Residency and passports
- Wealth structuring
- Transparency and the global exchange of information

We hope you are able to join for what will be an opportunity to address your questions and concerns and share your own insight.
