Roberta Crivellaro, managing partner of Withers' Italian practice, has been listed in the April issue of Forbes Italia amongst the top 100 outstanding female achievers in Italy today.

The list highlights in particular individuals who are active in the areas where Italy plays a major role on the international stage. She joins a list of representatives from well-known names in the worlds of business, finance, arts, media, sports and tech such as Armani, Fendi, Versace (fashion), Antinori (wine), Bracco, Walgreens Boots Alliance (pharmaceuticals), Google, Facebook and Lenovo (IT), Mondadori (publishing), Authors (Dacia Maraini, Susanna Tamaro), performers (Monica Bellucci, Laura Pausini), retail (Ikea, Esselunga) to name but a few and is one of only two lawyers to appear in the list.

We are proud of our record of female leadership and support for women's careers, a policy which has always been an important factor in our culture. 42% of our global partnership are female and over half of our entire senior leadership team is made up of women. Roberta's success and achievement is a demonstration of just how rewarding this policy can be for all concerned. We are extremely proud of her!
