As individuals and businesses across Asia navigate the new business landscape that was heavily disrupted by the pandemic, we have strengthened our resolve to support our clients through their journey of personal and business recovery and success.

In the inaugural “Singapore’s Best Law Firms 2021” rankings based on surveys conducted by The Straits Times and Statista, Withers KhattarWong has been recognised as one of the top five firms in Singapore for ‘Inheritance and succession’. We have also been ranked as a leading firm in the areas of conveyancing, criminal law, insolvency and restructuring, manpower and employment, and real estate law.

Fernando Gandioli, partner in our private client and tax team in Singapore comments: “Thank you to our clients and contacts, as well as to The Straits Times and Statista, for the support and recognition. Our local and international teams here are growing each year, covering not just Singapore and the US, but major jurisdictions like Australia, India and the UK. We are here to assist you in your journey, from exploring new opportunities to resolving your difficulties.”

Deborah Barker SC, managing partner of Withers KhattarWong comments: “We are grateful to our clients for this recognition, and strive to constantly improve and to provide excellent legal advice and service to our clients. This is also a testament to our robust network of expertise, from our offices in Singapore, Hong Kong and Japan, to our proven global network.”
