Jared is an associate in the private client and tax team.

He advises clients on their estate planning and wealth protection and this includes establishing family offices, private trust companies, charitable and non-profit structures, as well as advising on the structuring and regulatory considerations of establishing such structures.

He also assists individuals and families with developing efficient holding structures, and helps clients with applying for relevant tax incentives for their investment holding entities.

He also advises ultra-high net worth individuals and their professional advisers on matters relating to income tax, stamp duty, GST, property tax and international tax and treaties.

Prior to joining Withers KhattarWong, Jared was a tax associate with a leading tax and private client services team in one of the top accounting firms.
