Agatha is a consultant in the banking and finance team.

She started practice in March 1992 with a focus in debt capital markets deals, such as local and international club deals and syndications. Over the years, her practice focus has been on corporate banking and finance, including secured and unsecured financing, domestic and cross-jurisdictional transactions, residential and commercial financing projects – and advisory work on general banking, enforcement and corporate issues.

Her clients are principally local and offshore banks and financial institutions, and Agatha advises both banks and borrowers, and drafts loan and security documentation in relation to various corporate banking and finance transactions, including bilateral loan and security documentation, syndicated or club deals, and drafting of standard banking forms and documents, and standard terms and conditions.
