Graham is a consultant in the international corporate tax team.

He mainly advises clients on VAT as well as on gift aid for charities, general charity transactions and Stamp Duty Land Tax. Regarding VAT, his main area of focus is: real estate and charities.

Most of Graham's practice involves advising clients on what the tax law legitimately allows so that they do not pay more tax than they ought or is fair. This only occasionally involves recouping overpaid tax (since it is better to pay the correct amount to start with). On occasion however a defence of the position, or the need to 'claw back' occurs, and the following highlights are examples of these kinds of assignment.
